A lifetime of advantages

→ Be noticed
International Qualifications

Work towards one of three globally recognised qualifications (CEng, IEng and EngTech), demonstrating your excellence and commitment to your profession.

→ Receive
Regular Publications

To keep you at the heart of latest developments, news and information, you will receive the IET Engineering and Technology magazine, containing industry news, career information and sector specific features.

→ Expand your knowledge
Events

Keep up-to-date and stimulate your knowledge by attending IET events. There is a wide range of topics covered from essential business skills, time management, life skills and many more. Wherever you are living or working there should be an IET activity near you.

→ Instant access
IET.tv

If you cannot make our events in person, log on to IET.tv and watch live or archived event footage at your desktop via the internet. You can even ask the speaker questions during live streaming, making you feel part of the audience without physically being there.

→ Participate
Local Networks

Wherever you are in the world one of our 90 Local Networks will be there to support you. Each network offers lecturers, seminars and technical visits, plus the opportunity to network with fellow professionals.

By joining the IET you will be supported and connected within this ever changing profession.

Attaining our globally recognised qualifications will give you credibility, not to mention a major advantage in the job market. If you are serious about your professional development then take full advantage of our online communities, seminars and courses, publications, library services and networking events.

Take your professional career development to the next level and become a member of the IET today.
